

Climbing Closure (36 CFR)

Nesting Peregrine Falcons

All faces of Moro Rock are currently CLOSED to climbing

By respecting closures you are playing an active role in the conservation of these amazing birds.

Peregrine falcons historically nested on Moro Rock, and since nearing extinction due to DDT, they are back! Peregrines can be very sensitive to human activity around their nest area and may abandon the nest if disturbed. Some of the approaches and climbing routes are too close to the nest site and have been closed.

It is against the law to disturb the birds and offenders can be cited by a law enforcement officer.
